the old Colonial Court-house of Philadelphia. Through the open door you see the Continental Congress assembled; the moment of a great decision is drawing near. Look at the earnest faces of the men assembled there, and consider what you may expect of them. The philosophy of the eighteenth century counts many of them among its truest adepts. They weland plantations the new ideas. forth by that sudden progress of humanity, and, meditating them in the dreamy solitude of virgin nature, they had en-larged the compass of their thoughts, and peopled their imaginations with lofty ideals. A classical education (for most of them are by no means illiterate men) has put all the treasures of historical knowledge at their disposa, and enabled them to apply the experience of past centuries to the new problem they attempt to solve. See others there of a simple but strong cast of mind whom common sense would call its truest representatives. Wont to grapple with the dangers and difficulties of young uprising cities, wont to carry quick projects into speedy execution, they have become regardless of obstacles and used to strenous activity. The constant necessity to help themselves has developed their mental independence; and intred to their mental independence; and, inured to political strife by the continual defence of their colonial self-government, they have at last become familiar with the idea, to introduce, into practical existence the principles which their vigorous minds have quietly built up into a theory. The first little impulses to the general up-heaving of the popular spirit-the tea tax, the stamp act-drop into insignificance; they are almost forgotten; the revolutionary spirit has risen far above them It disdains to justify itself with petty pleadings; it spurns diplomatic equivocation; it places the claim to independence upon the broad basis of eternal rights, as self-evident as the sun, as broad as the world, as common as the air of heaven. The struggle of the colonies against the usurping Government of Great Britain has risen to the proud dimensions of a struggle of man for liberty and equality. Behold, five men are advancing towards the table of the President. First, Thomas Jefferson, whose philosophical spirit grasps the generali-ty of things and events; then Benjamin the great apostle of common sense, the clear wisdom of real life beam ing in his serene eye; then the undaunted ohn Adams, and two others. That is the Declaration of Independence! That is the American Revolution. All men free and equal! Not even the broad desert of the Atlantic ocean stops the triumphant shout. Behold, the nations of the Old World are rushing to arms. botween D. H. Lady and J. F. Base has this day been dissolved. Either partner of the late firm are authorised to make settlement. The accounts of all those indebted to the old firm will be found at the office of the new firm.

D. H. Lady, in retiring, wishes to express his sinsere thanks to his enstoners for their very liberal patronage extended to him and would cordially recommend his successor to their favor.

Wheeling, July 11th, 1860.

I beg leave to state to the public, that on the 12th day of July, 1569, I bought D. H. Lady's entire interest in the above mentioned firm. The business will be conducted hereafter under the firm innue of McDonald & Baer and would respectfully ask a liberal share of public patronage. All stock intrusted with us will meet with the most careful attention.

HOW LOST, HOW RESTORED. Just Published, in a Scaled Envelove. A LECTURE ON THE NATURE, TREATMENT AND RADICAL OWNE OF SPERMATORRHOEA, or Seminal Weskness, Sexual Debility. Servousness and Involuntary Emissions, producing Impotency, Con-sumption and Munital and Physical Debility?

By ROB. J. CULVERWELL, M. D.,

The important fact that the awful consequences of solf-abuse may be effectually removed without inter nal medicines or the dangerous applications of cause ites, instruments, medicated bougies, and other empirical devises, is here clearly domonsfrated, and the outirely new and highly successful treatment, as adopted by the colebrated intuitor fully explained, by means of which svery one is enabled to cure himself perfectly, and at the least possible cost, thereby avoiding all the advertised nostroms of the day. This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.
